

THE HEADLINERS CLUB PRESENTS

Admiral Bobby Inman and Congressman Michael McCaul

Is Anyone Secure, and Are We? An Update for 2010

Thursday, August 26, 2010

Admiral Inman graduated from the University of Texas at Austin in 1950 and from the National War College in 1972. He became an adjunct professor at the University of Texas at Austin in 1987. He was appointed as a tenured professor holding the Lyndon B. Johnson Centennial Chair in National Policy in August 2001. Admiral Inman was the Interim Dean of the LBJ School of Public Affairs once in 2005 and again in 2009.

Admiral Inman served in the U.S. Navy from November 1951 to July 1982, when he retired with the permanent rank of Admiral. While on active duty he served as Director of the National Security Agency and Deputy Director of Central Intelligence. After retirement from the Navy, he was Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the Microelectronics and Computer Technology Corporation (MCC) in Austin, Texas for four years and Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of Westmark Systems, Inc., a privately owned electronics industry holding company for three years. Admiral Inman also served as Chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas from 1987 through 1990.

Admiral Inman's primary activity since 1990 has been investing in start-up technology companies, where he is a Managing Partner of Gefinor Ventures and Limestone Ventures. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of Massey Energy Company and of several privately held companies. He serves as a Trustee of the American Assembly and the California Institute of Technology. He is a Director of the Public Agenda Foundation and is an elected Fellow of the National Academy of Public Administration.

Congressman Michael T. McCaul is currently serving his third term in the United States Congress representing Texas' 10th Congressional District. As a member of the Homeland Security Committee, he serves as ranking member of the Intelligence Subcommittee. He is charged with assessing classified intelligence that determines the risk of a terrorist attack and has oversight jurisdiction over intelligence and the collection and sharing of information.

McCaul is also a member of the Homeland Security Subcommittee on Border, Maritime and Global Counterterrorism and the Subcommittee on Emergency Communications, Preparedness and Response. In addition he is a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, the Committee on Science and Technology and the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, otherwise known as the Ethics Committee.

Prior to coming to Congress, Michael McCaul served as Chief of Counter Terrorism and National Security in the U.S. Attorney's office in Texas, and led the Joint Terrorism Task Force charged with detecting, deterring and preventing terrorist activity. Congressman McCaul also served as Texas Deputy Attorney General under current U.S. Senator John Cornyn, and served as a federal prosecutor in the Department of Justice's Public Integrity Section in Washington, D.C.

A fourth generation Texan, Congressman McCaul earned a B.A. in Business and History from Trinity University and holds a J.D. from St. Mary's University School of Law. He is also a graduate of the Senior Executive Fellows Program of the School of Government, Harvard University.
